ELECTION/RESTRICTION

Restriction

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-12, drawn to an electrochemical cell, classified in class 429, subclass 37.
- II. Claims 12-25, 41, and 42, drawn to a pressure pad, classified in class 267, subclass 110.
- III. Claims 26-27, drawn to a method of maintaining compression within an electrochemical cell, classified in class 429, subclass 66.
- IV. Claim 28-40, drawn to a method of forming a pressure pad, classified in class 267, subclass 110.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the claims do not include various features of the dependent claims such as a cocentric arrangement of the members in claim 13, longitudinal disposal of a compression member in claim 21 or interwoven/interstitched members in claims 41 and 42. Claim 12 is a linking claim and does include all of the features of the subcombination and, therefore, is included in groups I and II. The subcombination has separate utility such as a pressure pad.

Art Unit: 1745

Inventions I and IV are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the product, a pressure pad, may be made by a different process as provided in the various claimed independent species. The methods arrange the configurations in a spiral pattern and a concentric pattern. Further, a pressure pad can be made by preparing an elastic pad of bundled fibers adjacent to an electrode.

Inventions I and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, the product, an electrochemical, may be used to generate electricity and the process of using a compression member may be used to compress end plates of a fuel cell stack.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 1745

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II, III, and IV, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. In addition, the search required for Group II is not required for Group I, III, and IV, the search required for Group III is not required for Group I, II, and IV, and the search required for Group IV is not required for Group I, II, and III.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143). Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
